American DND provides services related to the decommissioning and demolition of a facility. There are many phases to a demolition project and American DND personnel have accomplished all aspects and different stages of the decommissioning process. American DND personnel can either assist/augment an existing staff through the decommissioning phases, or American DND can actually perform/contract for those services if requested.

MANAGING CHANGE

American DND Personnel are experienced professionals at Change Management. Change begins when the decision to decommission a facility is first made and ends when that facility is returned to the original “GREEN” habitat before it was built. ADND’s previous project experience allows us to TEAM with a Client and work through the myriad of changing, evolving and emerging issues encountered during the decommissioning process.
